Shooting runs strong in 1LT Amber English's family. Her father and uncle were both U.S. Running Target National Team Members and Olympic Training Center resident athletes. Her mother and Aunt Kim had been members of one of America's Top Collegiate Rifle Programs. Naturally, hunting and shooting were regular recreational activities for her growing up, and participation in the National Junior Olympic Rifle Program and years of practice at the Olympic Training Center sharpened her skills. Today, she competes and trains as a member of WCAP and the U.S. Army Marksmanship Unit.

"Learn as much as you can from others. You don't have to do everything they say, but you're adding tools to your toolbox."
