SSG Sandra Uptagrafft was born in Singapore. Her family moved to London, England, when she was three months old and then to the Los Angeles, California, when she was about six.

Uptagrafft first started shooting in the collegiate competitive program in '91 while attending the University of Southern California (USC). After earning a spot on the 2020 Olympic Team, joining the WCAP team gave her the opportunity to train at the Olympic Training Center in Colorado Springs, enabling Uptagrafft to train with other Olympic team members and work with our National Pistol Coach full-time.

" When the Army athletes succeed, we showcase the best that the Army has to offer. The World Class Athlete Program is one of the many unique opportunities in the Army I am grateful for the opportunity to be a part of the program."
